LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY NEWSPAPER IN NORTHEASTERN CALIFORNIA

65th Year, Number 33 | Truckee, Nevada County, California, Thursday, October 12, 1933 | Established 1869

STATE CAPITAL NEWS

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 12—(UP)—In order to speed final consideration of the $170,000,000 great central valley water project, Governor Rolph called a special election for December 19.

The special election was considered necessary if the project is to gain any federal aid under the National Recovery Act. To wait until the general election in November, 1934, would have made such aid out of the question.

Meantime battle lines are being drawn, with Senator J. M. Inman, Sacramento, claiming that proponents of the water revenue bond act will find their chief adversaries to be the private power interests.

While there still is time for the initiative against the 2½ per cent sales tax to qualify for the special election, state officials believe the campaign against the tax is moving slowly and consider it unlikely the necessary 110,811 signers will be obtained in the near future. These officials are particularly anxious that the tax, not considered perfect by any means, be given a fair trial.

Mrs. Rheba Crawford Spivalo, director of the state department of social welfare, has a number of movie offers under consideration, but is afraid the 15 pounds she gained recently may bar her from the screen. The big trouble so far, however, has been the failure of the movie companies to offer her a story with the proper message on humanity and social welfare.

Once famous as the "Angel of Broadway" when she worked with the Salvation Army, a story of the Salvation Army may be worked out for her.

In the opinion of Ray L. Riley, California has placed its state government on a solvent basis as a result of passage of the sales tax. In support of this claim he pointed out that the market demand for California bonds is increasing steadily throughout the United States.

Having worn boots ever since he was five years old, Governor Rolph finally had to give up and don a pair of plain shoes. An attack of rheumatism made the process of pulling on the famous Rolphian boots too painful, and shoes were ordered by his physician until his feet are back to normal.

Earl Lee Kelly, state director of public works, and C. H. Purcell, flatly denied there has been any discrimination in the change of specifications for cement to go into the Oakland-San Francisco bay bridge. Both officials said that all major cement companies could furnish the cement required. It had been charged that the specifications favored one particular company.

MANY NOVEL SCENES IN 'BELOW THE SEA'

Life at the bottom of the ocean, that strange panorama of strange growing things and odd creatures rarely seen by the human eye, is one of the features of "Below The Sea," the Columbia picture which will be shown at the Donner Theatre next Saturday and Sunday night.

The story, an original by Jo Swerling, concerns a hunt for gold entombed in a sunken submarine, and it gives the cameraman a grand opportunity to get some marvelous shots of the wonders that exist below the waves. Through the windows of the diving bell he ground away at the unending variety of swimming and crawling under-sea inhabitants and fantastic plants and flowers, and the result is presented in the picture in their beautiful natural colors.

FIRE SMOULDERS 42 YEARS IN WHEAT PIT

MOSCOW, Ida., October 12—(UP)—A fire said to have been smoldering in buried wheat for 42 years is blamed for a grass fire near here.

In 1891 the Farmers Alliance grain warehouse burned, partially destroying hundreds of sacks of wheat. What remained was covered with earth.

Grass sprouted on top, but the fire smoldered on. Ground squirrels shunned the underground "oven." The fire finally become hot enough to set fire to dried grass above.

GOV. ROLPH ISSUES STATEMENT ON LAW ENFORCEMENT

Governor James Rolph Jr. Issues Following Statement for Publication

I have been advised tonight that men assuming authority but clothed with no authority are pretending to assume authority and in some cases have armed themselves with deadly weapons, claiming to be authorized to preserve the peace. This is to notify each and everyone of these individuals that they have no authority at law to preserve the peace or to act other than law abiding citizens unless sworn in by the sheriff of the county or duly constituted officers, authorized by him to make appointments of officers of the law and duly sworn in for that purpose.

Any person claiming himself to hold authority and doing so falsely will be punished as the law prescribes by the authority of the officers having authority to carry out the law.

I am cooperating with the rightful authorities in every county of the state and holding them responsible for preserving the peace. They need have no fear whatever because when they need help I will have it there whenever said help is needed.

At this critical time in our state and national history, it is a duty incumbent upon all citizens to render every possible assistance in bringing about an immediate, peaceful and mutual arbitration of all industrial disputes. I ask the cooperation of all patriotic citizens in this matter and offer the services of any and all departments of the state government in achieving this end.

JAMES ROLPH, JR.,
Governor of California

FISH NEWS

J. C. Lewis has been appointed superintendent of the Tahoe, Tallac and Markleeville fish hatcheries.

The surplus fish from the Tahoe Hatchery are now being planted in the Truckee River and its tributaries and the small lakes about Tahoe.

This section of the country, Lake Tahoe and the Truckee River, is getting a generous supply of young fry. The nights are cool and the waters of the streams just right for fish planting.

The U. S. Bureau of Fisheries cooperating with the California Fish and Game Commission, has planted some 80,000 Rainbow trout in the Truckee River over a wide area. These fish have all been marked which will aid in learning just where these fish have migrated.

MOTORBOAT MISTAKEN FOR SEA MONSTER

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 12—(UP)—The desk sergeant was a bit skeptical when Phile Jacobs, itinerant, entered the hall of justice and reported a sea monster in the Sacramento river.

It was no ordinary monster, according to Phil. A dull green in color, it had a head like a crocodile and was at least 80 feet long, he said. One of the three great horns protruding from its head whistled like a locomotive, Jacobs averred.

Remarking that motorboats might look that way if viewed under certain conditions, the sergeant ordered Phil locked up until sober.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Filipcic were called to Fresno on Wednesday afternoon by the serious illness of their little niece, Jacqueline.

Recent callers on Rev. and Mrs. P. H. Willis were Luther Lawson, Miss Maurine Kilgore and Miss Helen Gooch, all of Reno.

NRA Compliance Board Discusses Barbers' Code

Objection Made To Opening And Closing Hours. Agree To Abide By Temporary Price Code Pending Final Settlement

BILLION IN RELIEF FUNDS TO BAN HUNGER IN U. S.

WASHINGTON—There is in process of being chartered the Government's newest and most unprecedented agency known as the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation. The board of directors, comprising the Emergency Relief Administrator, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the Secretary of the Interior, will have available a fund of $1,000,000,000 to preclude the possibility of any one starving in this country next winter. It is a nonprofit corporation whose chief function will be to buy such foodstuffs as beef, pork, milk and dairy products, flour, meal, rice, and sugar direct from producers, in cooperation with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, thereby removing surpluses from the commodity markets and stimulating prices to the farmers.

Distribution of food to undernourished children and eradication of malaria in several sections of the country were added to the program for helping the destitute. Concerned over the increasing malnutrition among children of the unemployed, Relief Administrator Hopkins ordered local relief committees in the 48 states to provide for a meal a day at school buildings for hungry children, approximately 6,000,000 throughout the country.

Processing taxes, such as are already in effect on cotton, wheat, and hogs, will be levied to pay the farmers. Packing houses and mills will process at cost the products going into relief channels. Products on which processing taxes cannot logically be levied will be bought outright. Manufacturers will be asked to produce goods without profit. It is estimated that $200,000,000 can be raised by a $2 processing tax on hogs, $100,000,000 on cattle, and other products in proportion. The Corporation also will buy and distribute, all through the channels now used for relief, coal and clothing in its 2-way program of caring for the needy while depleting surpluses.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Chloupek of Roseville motored to Truckee on Friday and spent the week end here.

The local NRA Compliance Board which is comprised of Chas. Carrau, chairman, representing the employers, Mrs. E. Fay, representing the consumers and Hugh McColl representing the employees met on Monday evening with the members of the Truckee and Hobart Mills barbers to discuss the provision of the State Barbers Code. The barbers went on record against the opening and closing hours provided by the code.

The meeting was well attended by every master and journeyman barber in this region. It was the concensus of opinion that the hours of opening and closing of barber shops was not suitable to small towns subject to seasonable condition as Truckee and Hobart Mills are.

Discussion was also made on the prices as set forth in the code. Some of those present were of the opinion that the prices were too high under the economic conditions prevailing at this time. It was agreed, however, to abide by the temporary code in this respect pending a final settlement.

C. Edmunds, chairman of the local NRA committee explained that the barbers code under discussion was not drawn up under the NRA but under the provisions of the California Industrial Recovery Act. The enforcement and administration of the State Codes is under the Division of Corporations, which body has asked the assistance of local NRA Compliance Boards in adjusting violations if possible without the necessity of prosecution.

A temporary increase in hours was sanctioned by the Compliance Boards pending the final code, hearings on which are being held in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento this month.

ATHLETES PUT TO WORK IN LAUNDRY

FRESNO, Cal., October 12—(UP)—About this time of the year, when talk turns to subsidization of college athletes, the Fresno State College administration has a neat suggestion to offer.

The college invested $750, appropriated last spring by the board of directors, in a giant washer, mangle, wash trays, a 30-gallon storage tank and 1500 towels.

The project originated in the minds of students and alumni anxious to provide employment for athletes. Thirty hours weekly employment for 20 men was provided at the opening of the current semester.

And the project, incidentally, saves the college a substantial sum in towel laundering.

SALES TAX REPEAL

By United Press

Repeal the sales tax? It may sound attractive, but what have its advocates to offer as a substitute, inquire many California editors.

Would they plunge the state into hopeless insolvency, close the schools for lack of funds, return to real estate, or adopt a combination income and transaction tax?

Tax burdens should be equalized, said the Pasadena Star-News, with the spread made as thin as possible to prevent any group from being taxed excessively, adding: "In accomplishing this, it is to be expected that there will be writhing and grumbling and criticizing and opposing among those who systematically have been exempt from bearing their fair share of the tax burden. Those who have the good of the state at heart will go forward with this equalization process, regardless of all the criticism and opposition of those who heretofore have been shirkers in the matter of being taxed."

"Although petitions are being circulated for a referendum on the sales tax," comments the Marysville Appeal-Democrat, "all who are concerned for the orderly and safe transaction of the state's business will hope that the movement fails. No one who is opposed to the sales tax has as yet advanced a substitute that will keep California out of almost hopeless insolvency. To kill the sales tax now would be to pile up a gigantic deficit from which we could not extricate ourselves for years and then probably only through a levy upon real property."

"We spurned the tax on real estate when we voted for the Riley plan," remarks the San Diego Sun. "And the action was logical to many, although the Sun pointed out the weaknesses of the plan and predicted the situation that now confronts us. The burden on real estate is even yet too oppressive. As for the other alternative it includes a form of sales tax and an income tax, hence it would be even worse than the sales tax."

The Beverly Hills Citizen believes that "while the sales tax is an interruption in the smooth conduct of business and to many comes as a hardship even in the small amounts subtracted from the purse of the individual, the state cannot afford to go into bankruptcy and must take care of its obligations. If it, like the individual, spent too much in the spending days there is no way out of it than to pay the piper."

"It is fairly reasonable to assume that the issuance of tokens, valued at one-eighth of a cent, to be used in collection of the sales tax by business houses is not going to popularize that measure," in opinion of the Salinas Index-Journal. "The people as a whole have not taken kindly to paying an extra cent or two on small purchases, and when they are told they will have to carry tokens around with them to provide for the tax on sales amounting to five and ten cents, there is bound to be increased dissatisfaction."

"We suggest," concludes the Vallejo Times-Herald "that those sponsoring the referendum on the sales tax be reasonable enough and fair enough to propose a substitute. The fact that they have not done so shows the weakness of their cause. We are not championing the sales tax because we like it—but because the citizens of the state of California are at the bottom of a deep financial pit and it seems to be the most satisfactory ladder to use."

DESTROYING FOOD

Many people who have followed with favor the acts of the administration so far have balked at approving the destruction of food. They are willing to go even so far as paying farmers to promise not to plant so much acreage in the next year. They can tolerate the plowing under of the young cotton not yet mature enough to harvest. But the actual destruction of food already produced goes against the grain.

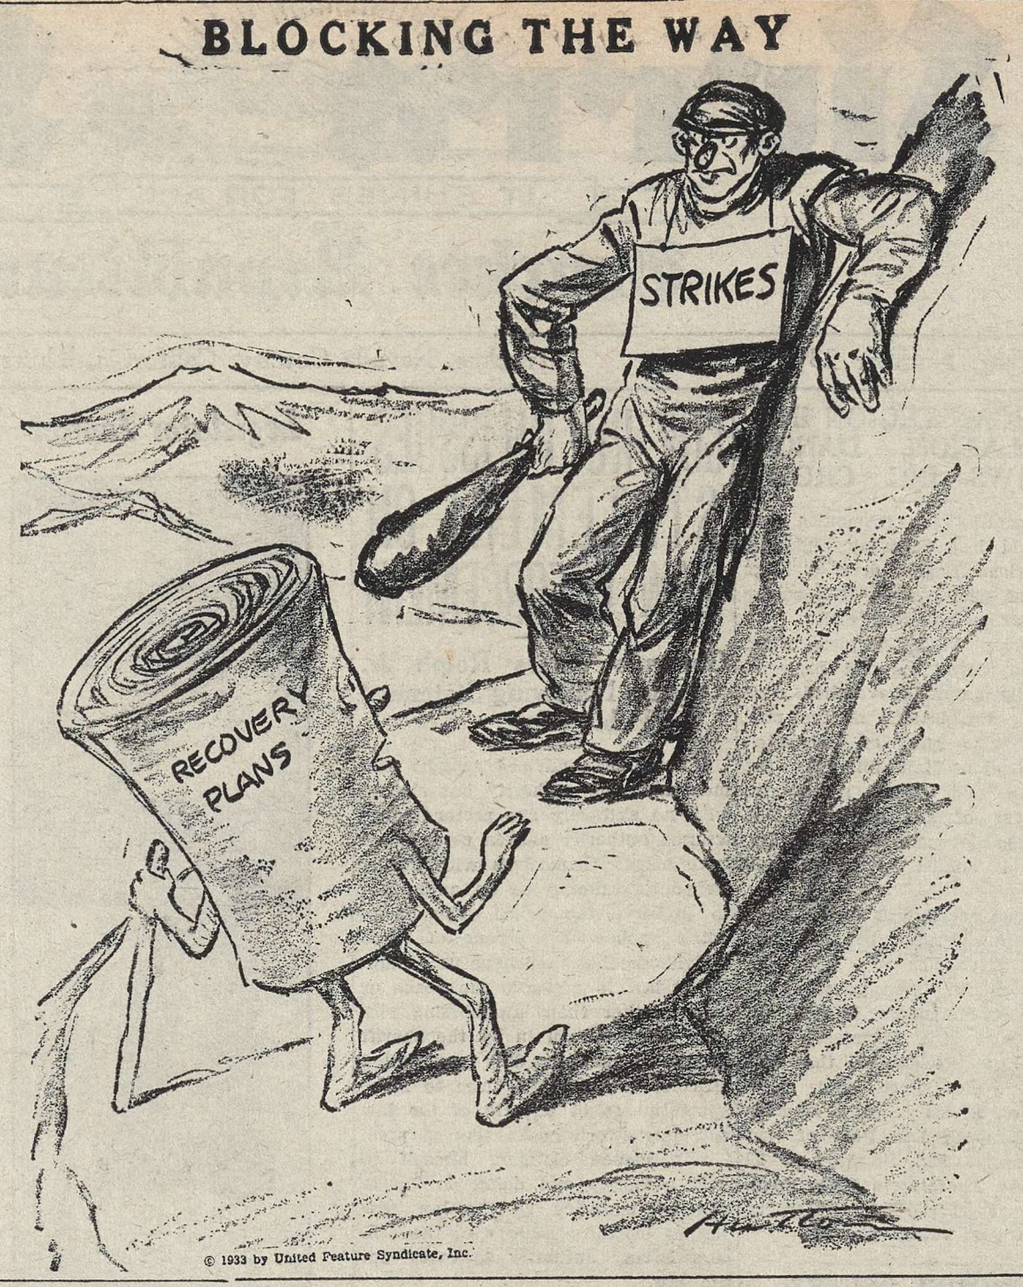

Instinct, here, agrees with the best knowledge of economics. On general principles, there is not too much food while hungry people remain on the earth.

Yet in the home of a typhoid patient, the doctor may sometimes destroy good food not only raised but prepared and cooked, in order to save his patient. Later, the same physician will order similar food and plenty of it for the same patient. It is the crucial stage of the disease which requires the crucial remedy.

Storing the corn, wheat and little pigs for use in direct relief until there is no more need for relief sounds reasonable. Turning those little pigs into fertilizer is not so good somehow.

It is to be hoped that the patient may soon be beyond the necessity of measures of this kind.

NEIGHBORS

Oh, neighboring was neighboring, times when
A frontier housewife, hungry for her kind,
Must journey miles of wilderness to find
A cabin and a woman's face again.

How fine an art, it later on became!—
In days of gracious leisure; fenced in yards;
Cross-stitched, blue gingham aprons . . . calling cards . . .
A picture fading now in memory's frame.

Life lost something of its zest, its savor—
Neighborliness out-moded for a while—
Yet once again the piquant phrase to neighbor,
Attains new glory, coming back in style,

With radio to bind a multitude
Of alien folk in one vast neighborhood.

The Letter Box

The Grass Valley Morning Union devotes a long front page editorial, bemoaning the additional cost of fifteen cents for a hair cut and ten cents more for a shave. One would think from the tone of the writer, the family resources are about to be cut one half by this governmental advance in price.

In defense of the code and the barber art, I would remind the writer of the wailing article that no place does one get as much for the money as at a barber shop. A customer comes into the shop. He has a terrific headache from writing editorials—probably about barbers—or the other fellow who is getting over the hilarity of the night before. The barber is in sympathy with his condition, puts hot and cold towels to his fevered brow, gently massages the aching dome, and the customer goes his merry way, feeling fine, except for the exorbitant price of thirty-five cents which has been rung up on the cash register against him. All the barber has to do for solace, is to wait an hour or longer for another customer, and wonder if he is going to make the shop overhead, and pay the grocer. However, as the writer states the alternative of letting the flowing locks flow for another month, and the chin meadow can go to seed while the owner gets a long delayed legacy wherewith to pay the barber the additional price the government has put on his head.

Politically Speaking

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 12—(UP)—A whirlwind campaign in favor of the great central valley water project, will actually mark the beginning of Governor Rolph's campaign for re-election.

After calling a special election for December 19 to give the people an apportunity to vote on the referendum against the $170,000,000 water project, the governor immediately started plans for a speaking tour which will carry him to almost every couny in the state.

The governor will make every effort to get the water plan approved because he sincerely belives it of paramount importance to the state and to his administration.

There is his side, also. Rolph and his advisers feel that the governor's greatest chance for reelection lies in his personal appeal.. So the capitol will see very little of the governor for a while.

Incidentally the water fight has brought about some peculiar combinations, the strangest of which is the sight of Senator J. M. Inman, potential candidate for lieutenant governor on an anti-Rolph ticket, lined up with Rolph and Senator Bradford S. Critenden, Stockton.

Outside of the water problem with its phases of public ownership of power and unemployment relief, the political picture has changed little. The fight to bring the initiative against the sales tax to a head has shown little progress. Should it qualify an attempt to force Rolph to give it special consideration by either arranging for inclusion on the December 19 ballot, or calling another special election, probably will be made. Reports that a recall movement would be instituted if Rolph refused to take some action have received scant consideration.

When the governor included Fred E. Stewart, state equalization board member, on his list of possible candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, it was rather expected that Stewart would consider himself too busy with the sales tax and issue a denial. But he refused to either affirm or deny the report.

Other candidates are virtually marking time, preferring to wait until spring when such problems as water and taxation and deficits will have taken a more definite position in relation to what promises to be one of the state's most exciting political years. Along in March the big guns will begin to boom in earnest.

Incidentally a special session of the legislature early next year is a strong possibility. The deficit amounts to $41,600,000 and is growing steadily as revenues decrease. The income of the steam railroads on which the state collects a gross receipts tax, for instance, is 17 per cent below that of last year.

ACNE AFFECTS SKIN BEAUTY, SO BEWARE OF THIS DISEASE

By JACQUELINE HUNT

IT IS a common human weakness—avoiding the unpleasant things as much as possible and doing the pleasant ones first. And your beauty columnist is no exception. It is so much more fun to write about how to become glamorous with the aid of cosmetics or how to find romance with the right perfume than it is to write about such sad, unfortunate things as acne.

MISS HUNT

My readers call me to task occasionally, however. Some of them have written such unhappy letters, begging me to help them, that I feel guilty for not having discussed the matter more frequently.

Acne is most common in young boys and girls and starts during adolescence when the glands are overstimulated. The old-fashioned idea was that acne was unavoidable and that the child would outgrow the condition and everything would be lovely, or if it wasn't very little could be done about it.

The tragic result of that attitude was that the child's face was frequently scarred and as a result of that disfigurement, he developed a self-consciousness that could not be overcome the rest of his life.

Today we know better. Acne can be treated and greatly improved and if the correct treatment is persistently followed it can actually overcome this repulsive looking skin condition. Unfortunately the treatment is sometimes long and tedious and the patient may become discouraged.

To treat any ailment scientifically we must know what causes it and something about it. In the case of acne, we know that it begins with superfluous secretions of the sebaceous glands. This accumulates in the pores and dead skin cells or dust accumulating on the surface forms blackheads. If the blackheads are not removed at once, the pores may be infected with bacteria and pimples result.

The first or surface pimples can be cured up promptly if something is done at once, but if they are neglected, they become more and more deeply rooted until when they are ultimately cleared up they leave pits and scars that can never be removed.

The underlying cause of acne on the skin may be one of several things or a combination of all of them. Digestive disturbances due to improper diet or to over-eating, especially sweets, is a most common cause. General debility following illness may cause an oily condition which will be followed by acne if not cared for immediately.

If this professional aid is unavailable or impossible for any reason you will have to do the best you can in treating the disease at home. But you must be careful to follow a rigid diet, eliminating all sweets and fatty foods and most starches from your diet. Eat lots of fresh fruits and vegetables, preferably raw, drink at least a pint of milk daily and eat very little lean meat or fish. You will need a little cereal or bread in your diet, but do not use more than is absolutely necessasy In addition you will need lots of sunlight and fresh air, exercise and sufficient sleep.

In tomorrow's column I shall take up the home treatment for acne in detail.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Mumps (Parotitis) Is a Painful Disease and Is Contagious

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

MUMPS is a disease that would ordinarily not be considered at this time of year, because it is much more prevalent during the winter months. But it is a disease of young adults, especially where they are gathered together in groups. Our reforestation groups are transported and housed in concentrated camps and these conditions are ideal for the spread of an epidemic.

* * *

MUMPS are an infectious disease of the salivary glands, and usually attacks those at the angle of the jaw just in front of the lobe of the ear. The disease, of itself, is not serious. There is chilliness, with fever, headache and general distress, also pain and swelling of the affected gland or glands, which usually gets well in seven or eight days. But when it gets started in a group, it is a source of much loss of time and some serious cases.

* * *

DURING the late war it was the second disease in importance of consequence in our army camps as to loss of time and demand upon the hospital requirements. Almost every one contracts it who has not been protected by previous attacks. The complications are more serious than the disease proper and often cause much pain and distress in important organs and an occasional death.

* * *

MENINGITIS occurs in some cases, and inflammation of the middle ear with loss of hearing is not infrequent. The virus, which causes the disease, is carried in the mouth of the patient and is present before fever and swelling occur. Consequently, many are exposed before the disease is suspected. The swelling of the gland often becomes very great, and the grotesque appearance of the face and head provide much merriment for the family and friends, but not for the patient.

* * *

CHEWING of food causes real distress because the movement of the jaws creates a free flow of saliva, which cannot escape from the swollen gland. This causes more swelling and acute pain. The treatment of a mild attack is simple and easy. Rest in bed, application of hot or cold packs to the swelling, mild iodine or belladonna ointments give much relief. A thorough laxative at the start will lower the fever and relieve the congestion.

* * *

LATELY a convalescent serum has been ineroduced, which should be used in all cases with complications. It is a serum made from the blood of persons convalescent from mumps after about four weeks. Rather large injections of this serum are introduced into the muscles of the patient each day. Quick relief follows these injections. The serum has also been used in institutions and camps where the disease was epidemic as a preventive and has given good results in stopping the progress and spread of the disease in these places.

The bucks seem to remain as elusive as they were at the opening of the season. Very few of the old timers who are accustomed to getting their limit each year, have had any luck so far. There seems to be a distinct shortage of bucks in other parts of the state as well, according to local reports. Perhaps we should have a couple of years of closed season on deer to give the bucks a chance to catch up with the number of hunters.

On Tuesday night a few friends gathered to celebrate the birthday of Charles Swanson of Sunnyside Places were set for nine guests including Mr. and Mrs. William Topp Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hursey, Mr. and

We do not represent Acme Dark Beer to be non-fattening. You can enjoy your beer and have your figure, too, if you drink Acme Light, which is a sparkling, mellow, true Pilsener Beer that contains no excess carbohydrates. It won't add a bit to your weight.

Its bouquet and flavor are the most delicious that the brewing art has developed.

Acme Beer is full legal strength . . . it foams to its crest in a balance of excellence . . . that's why published Government statistics show that Acme has outsold all other beers throughout the West for the third consecutive month. By this advancement Jess Tilson was moved up from second assistant to that of first assistant while third assistant Frank Eckerwa advanced to second assistant and Charles Foster was elected to the third assistant position.

Harvey Bush Sr., who has been for some time located at Yuba Pass to the west of here, arrived last week to make his home indefinitely

The twelve car garage erected by J. C. Lyon of Norden Grocery is now completed and ready for occupancy and it is an addition that is an asset to Norden and its residents.

"Bill" Sellick Jr., one of Norden's highest ranking deer hunters of note, has gone out on the last two occasions and has seen no less than a dozen male deer and countless does and fawns, but has on each occasion returned without having fired a shot. Much comment is current as to whether Bill's optics contain a magnifying element that may greatly enlarge predatory animals that may run across the trail ahead while in the search of the elusive buck, nevertheless Bill continues to go out each week end and may surprise Norden before closing day.

MATCHWORKER HAS NO MATCHES SO MUST SLEEP OUT IN OPEN

CHICO, Cal., October 12—(UP)—A ship without a rudder? Why, that's nothing when likened to a matchworker without a match, according to Edward B. Mason.

Mason, an employe of the Diamond Match company, is a non-smoker. Consequently, he doesn't carry matches with him.

As a result, he spent the night in the open on a recent deer hunting trip when, becoming lost from his companions, he was unable to light a fire to signal the others.

BURGLARS STEAL LIBRARY 'FINE' MONEY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 12—(UP)—Contrary to popular belief, "fines" received by burglars aren't always victories for law and order.

In fact, sometimes just the opposite is true. This deduction was advanced when employes of the Oak Park branch library reported to local police that burglars had entered the building and stolen $6.

The money represented "fines" paid by library patrons for keeping books over the time limit.

Check-Up To Be Made On Commercial Vehicles By Highway Patrolmen

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 12—(UP)—The Department of Motor Vehicles today announced state highway patrolmen immediately would begin a statewide check-up on all commercial vehicles carrying either passengers or freight for hire on public highways to determine whether they have secured the special license and paid the special tax required by a new law passed by the last legislature.

The check will be made by the partol in co-operation with operatives of the State Board of Equalization. It will be in charge of E. Raymond Cato, Chief of the partol.

The new law requires the operators of such vehicles to pay an annual license fee of $25 to the state board and 3 per cent of the gross receipts. It excludes all vehicles operated entirely within the incorporate limits of cities and towns and the regular stage and freight lines which pay the state transportation tax levied by a previous legislature.

The law become effective on June 1st. It requires the operator of such vehicles to make a report of his earnings not later than the tenth of the month following that covered by the report. Fees are payable on the date the report is filed and become delinquent a month thereafter and are subject to a penalty of ten per cent.

The law exacts a penalty of $25 for failure to report. The initial operator's fee is $25 a year but it may be renewed after the first year for $15.

The highway patrolmen will have instructions to issue citations of arrest to all persons who have not complied with the new law.

The new law was embodied in Senate Bill 125 and is now known as Chapter 339 of the Political Code.

Auto Accidents Show Decrease

By THOMAS B. MALARKEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 12--(UP)—Proudest of all boasts of the state highway patrol is its record of cutting down the motor vehicle accident rate.

But there's one problem in this connection they haven't yet been able to solve—the keen thirst of some California drivers during the month of July.

During the seven month period ending July 31, state highway patrolmen made 68 accident investigations in Nevada county.

Statistics reveal, according to Raymond Cato, chief of the state highway patrol, that during the hot summer month of July arrests for drunken driving increased sharply. Just why this should be so, has not been determined.

Perhaps heat adds an extra kick to intoxicants; or maybe thousands of vacationists are inclined to celebrate their respective holidays by indulging in drinks. It can't be blamed on 3.2 beer. For the sharp July increase has occurred in past years.

Whatever the cause, every informed highway patrolman knows he will probably be a busy man running down drunken drivers during the seventh month of each year.

Coincident with a marked decrease in motor vehicle accidents and accidental deaths on our highways," Cato commented, there is one item of increased activity. That is the 33 per cent increase for arrests on drunken driving in July of this year.

"This must not be taken as being caused by the legalizing of beer. In fact it is a seasonal increase as July, 1932 showed an increase over June of the same year of 44 per cent, while the same month in 1933 increased only 33 per cent.

"In further analyzing, we find that July, 1933 drunken driving arrests decreased 26.40 per cent under July, 1932.

14 WORLD'S RECORDS WON BY AB JENKINS WITH GOODRICH TIRES

For 24 hours, faster than any man has ever driven an autombile for the distance, Ab Jenkins, noted knight of the roaring road, circled the great flat course at Salduro, Utah, and when he had negotiated 3,000 miles the official A. A. A. Contest Board timing gave him a new record of 117.98 miles an hour.

Jenkins piloted a Pierce-Arrow Special 12 in his long grind and to be sure that he would go through without an accident he selected Goodrich Silvertown tires, specially built by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company to meet his exacting requirements, according to the Tourist Garage, local Goodrich dealer.

Jenkins and Roy Faulkner, vice-president of the Pierce Arrow Motor Car Company, are now on the Pacific Coast with the car and the tires on which it hurtled home to victory, bringing back to the United States 14 world's records formerly held in France.

"While he was in San Francisco he talked with Goodrich factory representatives and praised the performance of the tires highly, pointing out that only super-built rubber could stand the terrific pounding he gave it.

The Golden Text will be: "All things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation." (II Corinthians 5:18). Other Bible citations will include: "For if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life. And not only so, but we also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement." (Rom. 5:10, 11).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passage from the Christain Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus aided in reconciling man to God by giving man a truer sense of Love, the divine Principle of Jesus' teachings, and this truer sense of Love redeems man from the law of matter, sin, and death by the law of Spirit,—the law of divine Love." (p. 19).

TEAR GAS GUN SALESMAN GETS SURPRISE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 12—(UP)—There is a certain tear gas gun salesman in this state who probably regards Clarence Morrill, arch villian-catcher as simply an arch villian. This is the way Morrill tells the story:

The salesman entered Morrill's office and dropped onto the desk of the chief of the state's bureau of criminal identification one of the new-type weapons that looks almost exactly like a fountain pen.

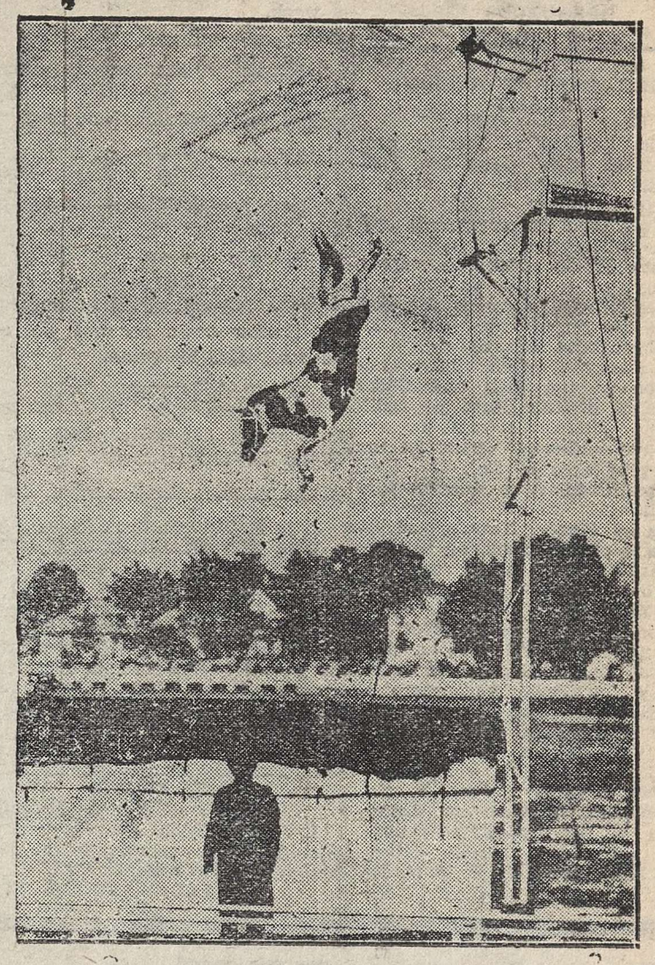

Morrill promptly dropped the weapon into a drawer and closed the drawer.

"Hold on," said the salesman, "it's not a present. I'm just showing it as a sample."

"Well, which would you rather do?" Morrill asked, "leave this thing in my desk or go to jail? There's a new law that makes it a felony to carry one of these tear gas guns unless the weapon's serial number is registered and you have a permit."

Morrill still has the "pen" and the salesman his freedom.

Come in and see what makes the New Goodrich Silvertowns 3 times safer from blow-outs

Every year thousands are killed or injured when blow-outs throw cars out of control. The Goodrich campaign, to save lives thus needlessly sacrificed, is awakening the public to the dangers of blow-out accidents.

When the speedometer reads 40, 50, 60 —the heat inside your tires becomes terrific. A blister starts . . . gets bigger and bigger . . . Until BANG! A blow-out! And you're headed for trouble.

Now, to protect you from blow-outs, every Goodrich Safety Silvertown has the amazing new Life-Saver Golden Ply that resists heat. Fabric and rubber don't separate . . . thus blisters don't form. Blowouts are PREVENTED by overcoming their very CAUSE!

BLOW-OUT PROTECTION FREE!

And that isn't all. Goodrich Silvertowns have the most skid-resisting tread. Its squeegee drying action gives your car extra road-grip, and reduces danger of skidding to a minimum.

Let us put Goodrich Safety Silvertowns on YOUR car. Remember, they cost no more than other standard makes.
